THE BUSHWICK REVIEW

Of Photography

A Panflute.nyc Publication

Winter 2022

Bed-Stuy

1

In this untitled series, my street photography work doesn't show any faces, giving more prominence to the scene, action, and movement.

My subjects have some sense of anonymity,
Sometimes they transfigure into objects,
like a plastic head.

The locations of this series are explained by neighborhoods more than cities,
putting in context the differences and similarities that exist between them,
and how these juxtapose making them unrecognizable.

My participation as a street photographer in these photos
is of amusement,
and as the guard of a really big secret:
my scenes and subjects are not aware that they are the most important part of my photography work.

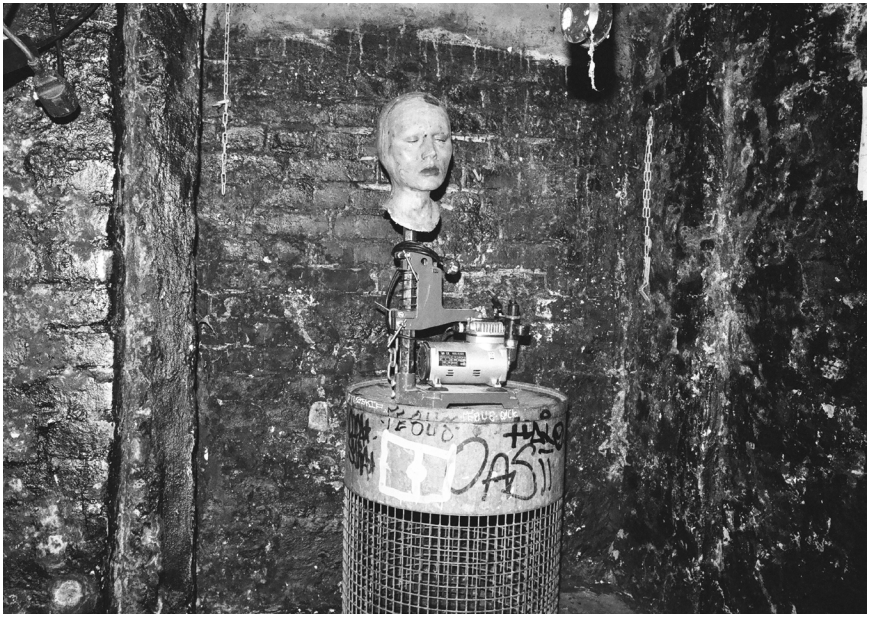
French

Jacob Riis Park

Midtown



Neukölln

Bushwick

Greenwich Village

Long Island City

NEW YORK POST

LATE CITY FINAL

SUNDAY, MARCH 15, 2020 / Partly sunny, 54°/ Weather: Page 28 ★★ SUNDAY nypost.com $2.00

HEAVEN HELP US!

NY Archdiocese churches have shut down services to stave off the spread of the coronavirus as hundreds more were diagnosed, but Mayor de Blasio is keeping city schools open despite pressure from officials and the teachers union.

NY Post photo composite

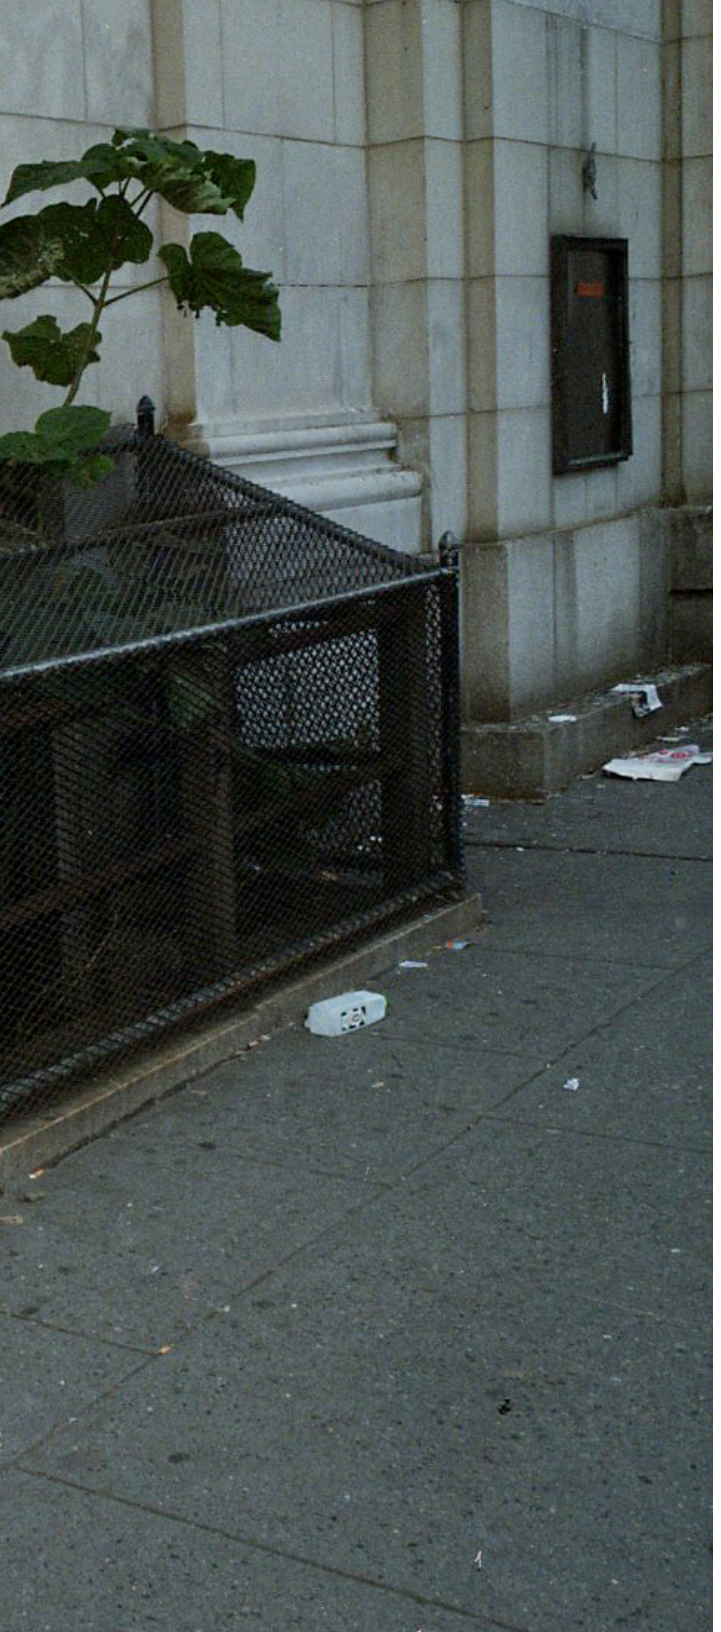
SEE PAGES 4-9

COVID-19 forces Catholic Church to cancel Mass

Teachers to stage sickout as NYC schools stay open

Two NYers die, state cases explode to 613

2



VIRUS.
JB.
LIQUOR

ROCK TRUMP!

1- “Unititled” series by Camilo Salas @zamilo
2- “Covid” series by Camilo Fuentealba @camilo.fuentealba.brevis

Submissions? zamilo@me.com
@panflutehaus Panflute.nyc